New Seaplane Terminal Handover Clarifications

Velana International Airport: August 16, 2021 – We would like to clarify some misleading information regarding the handover of Velana International Airport’s New Seaplane Terminal which was circulated through local media on 12 August 2021.

We would like to stress that the statement of complete handover of New Seaplane Terminal Building by Beijing Urban Construction Group (BUCG) to Maldives Airports Company Ltd (MACL) was factually misleading. More accurately, the 4th August 2021 handover was only partial with some tasks still to be completed before full hand over. This partial handover to MACL will now allow the building Tenants to carry out their fit out works to their Lounges along with other necessary works.

MACL issues this clarification to avoid any misleading information as much as possible.
